

FIRST OF TWO MURDER CASES OPENS MONDAY

George Nick of Lisbon Accused of Slaying 7 Years Ago

BORGWARDT WILL FACE JURY NOV. 29

County Has Yet to Send Murder Defendant to Electric Chair

LISBON, Oct. 15.—George Nick, Lisbon resident accused of slaying Chris Bazaras here seven years ago, will go on trial Monday, charged with first degree murder. Both prosecution and defense have nearly completed their plans for the court fight. A special venire of 75 names has been drawn and from these will be chosen 12 jurors.

Nick has been confined in the county jail since his release several months ago from the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. He was ordered committed to the institution in 1930. The committee provided for his return to Columbiana county in the event he recovered his sanity.

"Triangle" Case The defendant is alleged to have shot and killed Bazaras in the fall of 1929. Testimony at the original hearing indicated Nick believed Bazaras was paying attention to the former's wife.

Nick escaped from the hospital several months after he was committed but was apprehended in Detroit where his family now resides. Returned to the institution he was released in June on a writ of habeas corpus.

Another alleged murderer will be tried on a capital charge next week. Johannes Borgwardt, whose Nick will face a jury Nov. 29 on another first degree murder charge, is accused of slaying Mrs. Ruth Cranston, R. D. 2, Belmont on the night of Aug. 10.

The venire from which Borgwardt's jury will be selected will be drawn from the jury wheel the same day Nick's trial opens.

CHAIR LOOMING FOR DAHLOVER

Brady Gang Survivor Apparently Unconcerned About Fate

(By Associated Press) INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Indiana authorities hastened today to complete murder prosecution plans that may lead James Dahlover, lone survivor of the eradicated Brady gang, to the electric chair, but the alleged "trigger man" lolled in his cell here, apparently unconcerned over his fate.

He expressed his philosophy in these words, "although we were always on the run, it was pretty good while it lasted. Anybody who lived the life we did expected to be riddled with bullets, or end up like I did."

G-man bullets ended the deprivations of his companions in crime, Al Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., in Bangor, Me., last Tuesday.

Await U. S. Orders

State Police Captain Walter Eckert and Michael Morrissey, Indianapolis police chief, indicated today the wishes of U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and J. Edgar Hoover, federal Bureau of Investigation chief, would be learned before Dahlover was brought to trial on one or more of the many charges against him.

Federal agents hinted they would keep custody of Dahlover "temporarily" until a strong murder case against him had been completed. Indiana grand juries have returned indictments against him for the slaying of Richard Rivers, Indianapolis police sergeant, and Paul Minneman, state policeman.

Captain George Mingle of the Ohio state patrol sought here to link the gang with several unsolved Ohio crimes, but declined to comment on information he received.

Dahlover, held under $50,000 bond on a warrant charging robbery of three Indiana banks, was brought here yesterday by airplane from Bangor.

Talks Freely

After recovering from his first air trip, he talked freely to jail attaches and Julius J. Wiesner, chief deputy U. S. marshal.

Wiesner disclosed Dahlover and Shaffer threatened at one time to

THIRTEEN ENTER HUSKING EVENT

County Contest to be Held Saturday At Jacob Yaggi Farm

Farm folk and others in the district are expected to go to the Jacob Yaggi farm, two miles south of Sebring on the Johnson road in Knox township, to witness the annual Columbiana county corn husking contest tomorrow.

The husking race is slated to start at 9:30 a. m. and in the line-up of contestants will be W. F. Rudabaugh, winner of last year's event, together with his sons, Dale and Dean.

Thirteen Have Entered

Thirteen contestants in all have entered the men's contest and additional entries are expected. Two have entered the boys' contest, while one man has entered the event for men over 65 years of age.

Although the female corn huskers have not signified their intention of competing tomorrow morning, officials in charge of the contest expect the women to be on hand when the signal to start is given.

The winner of the main contest Saturday will be eligible to compete in the state corn husking contest, Oct. 27.

Contestants will husk from shocks into piles for 80 minutes, and fodder must be securely tied by strings of uniform length furnished by the owner, Mr. Yaggi, whose excellent stand of corn was the deciding factor in the selection of his farm for the contest.

Provide Own Tools

Each contestant must provide his own knife, husking peg and large sacks to hold the corn for weighing. Three special events of 40 minutes' duration will be held in the afternoon, all beginning at 2. These events will be limited to women, to men 65 years and over and to boys and girls 16 and under.

Merchandise prizes will be awarded the winners in all contests. The general committee in charge of the contest consists of Ernest Moser, Harry Vincent, Bert Wallace Silas Peppel, Edwin King, L. B. Pike, Ralph Adams, Orville K. Burdick, C. P. Keiton, Charles Speaker, Russell Miller, H. A. Willard, W. F. Rudabaugh, John Strausbaugh and Floyd Lower.

BRITAIN, FRANCE PLAN SHOWDOWN WITH MUSSOLINI

Will Make No More Major Concessions To Italy

SUB-COMMITTEE MEETS TOMORROW

Climax Near In Efforts To Keep Spanish War In Spain

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Oct. 15.—Britain and France, determined to make no more major concessions to Italy, planned procedure today for a showdown with Premier Mussolini on the question of withdrawing his armies from Spain.

The climax of 15 months of effort to confine the civil war to Spain will come when the nine-nation sub-committee of the London non-intervention committee meets tomorrow in an attempt to agree on a plan to remove thousands of foreigners fighting in Spain.

Patience at End

France's patience with Mussolini's delaying tactics were plainly at an end. The British were more reserved but the London-Paris allies stood agreed to speedy counter-measures to restore "the balance in Spain" if the sub-committee's deliberations prove fruitless.

British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, in another of his frequent indirect pleas to Hitler to bury the hatchet, said last night "we have the shortest memory for quarrels of any nation in the world," but added significantly:

"If we are attacked we should know how to defend ourselves as we always have done in the past but it is not in the temperament of our people to bear malice."

Awaits "Opportunities"

Referring to both Spain and China, Chamberlain said: "We shall continue to seek and take any opportunities that may offer to remove the causes of ill will and suspicion among nations."

Another strong indication that Britain was determined either to make effective the 27-nation Spanish non-intervention agreement or take measures to counteract Italy's great activity in Spain came from the "Times" of London, which 28 days ago to its majesty's conservative government.

Normal Weather to Return In 24 Hours

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—Freezing weather prevailed over most of Ohio early today, but Ohio Meteorologist John C. Fisher predicted a return to normal temperatures within 24 hours.

Another heavy frost and the second day of cold weather, weather bureau officials said, definitely ended the growing season in Ohio.

Cincinnati recorded a minimum temperature of 28, Columbus had 31, and Cleveland, benefiting by moderate winds sweeping over Lake Erie, recorded 38.

Temperatures later today were expected to correspond with those of yesterday, which were 17 degrees below normal.

Warm weather in the west and south portions of Ohio tonight and rising temperatures tomorrow was the forecast.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—Appeal of Guy F. Chilcote from suspension as excise tax branch manager of the Toledo district was under the consideration of the state civil service commission today. Chilcote was dismissed August 19 on charges of inefficiency and incompetency.

Hits Clerics Who Worship At "The Altar Of Mammon"

But, Clergyman Says, Something Should Be Done About Raising Their Salaries

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Oct. 15.—An arraignment of clergymen who "worship at the altar of Mammon" for covetousness, a resolution to set up a joint commission which would survey salaries of the clergy and recommend to the 1940 convention how "the present unequal remunerations may be adjusted."

The Rev. Oscar F. Green, of Palo Alto, Calif., who introduced the resolution, declared that "this disparity of income" is "jeopardizing our missionary program."

The problem also demands attention, he said, because "all of us think too much of money. We do not stay on the job where we are most useful, but we strive to find a place of higher pay."

"Because we have built up a false notion of success, disregarding the ideal of Jesus who told us to seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness first, in our hearts we have envied those with large salaries and worshipped at the altar of Mammon."

He declared "I am ashamed every time I receive my salary check" because "my check is larger than that of some of nine-tenths of my brethren."

A survey of the salaries of 300 ministers in Virginia, California, Utah and Nevada showed a range of $7,500 to $720 annually, and an average of $1,863, exclusive of living quarters, Mr. Green told the deputies.

The powers of the presiding bishop, already the church's spiritual leader, were expanded when the house of deputies approved a canonical amendment merging the office with that of the president of the national council, or board of directors.

SEEK JUDGE DAY AS G.O.P. SPEAKER

Party Members Launch Plans for Rally Probably Oct. 28

Preliminary plans to bring Judge Arthur Day of the Ohio supreme court to Salem to address a county-wide Republican rally, probably Oct. 28, were discussed by Salem Republicans at a meeting Thursday night in the Memorial building.

The exact date of the rally is contingent upon Judge Day's acceptance of the invitation to speak. Judge Day is a candidate for the United States senate. Other prospective speakers are former Attorney General John W. Bricker and Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins of Tronton.

Tentative campaign plans in behalf of the Republican candidates were mapped by the G. O. P. officials and candidates at last night's meeting.

Further details will be discussed at a meeting of all candidates and Young Republican club officers next Thursday night in the Memorial building.

A nominating committee, composed of Don Burcaw, Paul Myers and Mayor George Harroff, was named to arrange for the annual election of club officers to be held in conjunction with the county-wide meeting.

A musical program will be held in connection with the speaking program and there is a possibility that a parade will precede the rally.

Present officers of the Young Republican club of Salem include: President, Lezler Caplan; vice president, Arch Harwood, and secretary, Don Burcaw.

Truck Overturns

F. M. Brown, 43, of Mentor, and his helper, Virgil Patterson, 22, of Painesville, were unhurt when their truck became over-balanced as they rounded a curve on Route 14, four miles east of Salem at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, and upset.

The boom of a steam shovel, weighing about nine tons, being conveyed on the truck, caused the truck to sway.

Street Broadcast

In connection with the "Crazy Mike" program in the High school the auxiliary will sponsor a "street broadcast" which will be held in the downtown district Saturday afternoon and evening. Paul Smith and Charles Snyder will act as "inquiring reporters" bringing to the microphone spectators and passersby. The public is invited to participate and talk over the microphone which will carry the program to the public by loud-speaker.

CIO SUGGESTS PEACE AMONG LABOR UNIONS

Sino-Jap Policy Denied At Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15.—Assertions of private Vatican sources that instructions already have gone to missionaries in the far east regarding their conduct in the Sino-Japanese war, were denied officially today by the Vatican semi-official news service. It said:

"The news has been distributed in America and published under sensational headlines that the Vatican seeks to abet the fight against Communism in Japanese favor."

The news service added:

"Instructions to this effect are said to have been issued to representatives of the Holy See in the far east. Both pieces of news are absolutely false and have been officially denied by Archbishop Giuseppe Pizzardo, (undersecretary for ecclesiastical affairs), Mgr. Tardini (undersecretary of state) and Archbishop Costantini (secretary of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith)."

SENDS "FEELER" TO FEDERATION

Proposes Joint Meeting Of Rival Groups In Washington

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 15.—The Committee for Industrial Organization proposed to the American Federation of Labor today that committees from both meet to consider further the possibility of peace conferences.

The CIO in conference here advised the federation convention at Denver of its decision in a telegram which suggested a preliminary meeting be held in Washington the week of Oct. 25.

The telegram said in part: "Your telegram of Oct. 14 in response to the invitation of the committee for Industrial Organization, which had suggested that a conference be held to obtain a unified labor movement, has been received and presented to the conference of the committee for Industrial Organization now in session."

"The Committee for Industrial Organization is prepared to meet in conference on the basis set forth in its telegram heretofore mentioned. The proposal of the Committee for Industrial Organization included a suggested committee of 100 from each organization in order to meet the accepted practice of Democratic labor organizations and to afford full representation for the unions involved."

"However, the conference of the Committee for Industrial Organization has delegated a committee of 10 to meet with a committee from the American Federation of Labor to determine the number of representatives for each organization to attend the proposed conference and to fix a mutual satisfactory time and place for such proposed conference. It is suggested that this preliminary meeting be held in Washington during the week of Oct. 25, 1937."

STEEL PRICES ARE UNCHANGED

Industry Comes Out With First Note of Optimism In Weeks

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—The first note of optimism in recent weeks was sounded in the steel industry today with announcement that Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, subsidiary of U. S. Steel, had reaffirmed present steel prices ten weeks in advance of the next quarter.

The American Steel & Wire Co. of Cleveland, another subsidiary, also announced current base prices of wire and wire products would remain unchanged.

In making these announcements so far ahead instead of three or four weeks in advance as usually, the United States Steel subsidiaries hope to bring in a sizeable volume of orders from sources that have been reluctant to cover their needs under the present unsteady markets, it was pointed out.

From trade sources it was learned automobile companies last month sought to beat down steel prices when they came into the market for supplies for 1938 models, many holding off buying in the hopes the next quarter prices would show a reduction.

It was the third straight quarter that Carnegie's steel prices remained stationary. The last increase became effective the start of the second quarter this year. The remainder of the industry usually follows "Big Steel."

Other encouraging news in the industry was announcement by the Sharon Steel corporation fixing its next profit at $1,646,005.89 for the first nine months of 1937, over $300,000 more than it earned in all of 1936. The profit equals $4.25 a share on its 387,773 shares of outstanding common stock.

Two short plays will be presented during the broadcast. In the first, "The Insane Asylum of the Air" will be Don Beattie, Mary Helen Brudery, Steve Balan, William Lit-ty, Stefan Oana. The second play is a melodrama "Little Nell," and the cast includes Charlotte Morey, William Litly, Paul Meier, Steve Balan, Wade McGhee.

Two special features will be given by Donna Jean Ressler and Patsy and Fritz Ludington. Ralston Smith will have a comedy bit.

Others who will appear during the program are: Lewis Zimmerman, Anna Ruth Vincent, Earl Root, Marie Callahan, Gene and Glenn Weingart, Elaine McGhee, Elaine Barcus, Dorothy Jean Jackson, Richard Daugherty.

Elaine Greenmeyer, Peggy and Bobby Cassidy, Joanne Wiese, Joyce Wachsmuth, Virginia Nickalos, Betty Cosgarea, Barbara Roese, Phyllis Gross, Doris Ellis, Leo Copacia, J. Betty Wilson, Margaret Votaw, Ellen Monks, Leatrice Johns, Katherine Griffon, Mrs. Thelma Talbot, Dolores Poorbaugh, Janet Lehman, Mary Fisher and Katherine Sturgeon.

The club plans to purchase new equipment for the basketball team. The group also will purchase for its own use four small tents which were used during the national Sausagefest here on Labor day.

—AND FURTHERMORE

The President's latest "fireside chat" reminds his countrymen that even before the new deal they worried about the tremendous burden their chief executives were carrying. Compared with what the job has become under Mr. Roosevelt, it was a snap in those carefree days.

Mr. Roosevelt pledged himself Tuesday night to give personal attention to raising low wages and shortening hours. He promised to conserve national wealth and readjust the country's economic system. He will handle the centuries-old problem of farm surpluses. He will straighten out confusion about the philosophy of democratic government, which has been revealed to him especially. He will reorganize American government to make it work better. He will take a leading part in statesmanship in the far eastern crisis. He will do likewise in the European crisis. He will call a special session of congress Nov. 15 to get prompt action on problems of the present and will insist that problems of the future be solved without any further monkey business in the regular session. He will continue to spend public money where it's needed and he will balance the budget, too. These are just high points, a handful of the things with which President Roosevelt feels called upon to deal.

And in his spare time, his countrymen remember breathlessly, he collects stamps and ship models.

It is not criticism of Mr. Roosevelt's speech, but recognition of a fact to say that it covered more ground than his countrymen with merely ordinary imaginations can gallop over, or even survey easily from a fixed position. There was something in it about almost everything under the sun, from what the Roosevelt administration is going to do for the crossroads, right on up to its plans for improving the world. It takes time to digest such a serving of improvement. Each man must partake according to his tastes and needs.

Government, everywhere, takes in a lot of territory these days. The style is to proceed as though everything were possible if men only would put everything into the hands of political leadership. This is a phenomenon of the age—a triumph of what might be called the creed of following the head man to salvation. With such exceptions as must always be made for this always exceptional country, President Roosevelt's latest "fireside chat" testifies that the United States isn't far out of style.

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

If labor insists on a wage and hour law, if farmers want further crop control—and President Roosevelt indicates they have told him they do—then some leaders of labor and agriculture have been kept in the dark.

At the same moment the President was reviewing the "necessity" for crop control in his Tuesday night speech, L. J. Taber, speaking at Portsmouth, on behalf of the national grange, which he represents, said:

"The Roosevelt administration's philosophy of scarcity in dealing with agriculture is unsound and unhealthy. What we need today is a prosperity based on abundance and not on scarcity. Fewer crops won't solve the problem of the underfed and the poorly housed. Any new farm bill which becomes national law must be based on cooperation and not regimentation. Regimentation will destroy our American processes of life as we know them. I am sick and tired of seeing empty granaries up and down the nation and seeing Argentine corn in America's chicken coops."

As for labor's attitude on the wage and hour bill, Matthew Woll in the American Federation of Labor convention at Denver a few days ago expressed opposition. "The people have recourse to congress but virtually none to a board or bureau," he said, explaining that regulation and bureaucracy seem to go together.

He predicted that labor "would never again voluntarily submit itself to the whims of bureaucratic decisions and findings of any federal board."

Taking it from Senator Soaper, the college grid boys have passed their eligibility exams by answering the question, "Who delivered Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and where?" Probably got by oral penmanship, too.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Thoughts while strolling: Octavius Roy Cohen sounds like a parachute opening. What a pal Joe Miller has been to Bob Burns. Gloomy monuments to a dead past—the World and Tribune Buildings on Park Row. Learn one thing each day: In Japanese O-hi-o means good morning.

Something else comes up like thunder out of China across the bay. Ripley says you can smell China 100 miles at sea. Add wise old owl expressions. E. D. Coblenz's Sidney Kent, a Mr. Big of the movies who used to be a cowboy. And his beautiful wife. Hooray for Bruce Barton!

If you can't think of that Chinese General's name, listen to car wheels going over rail ends: Chiang Kai-shek. If Gloria Swanson has aged in the past 15 years she doesn't show it. Not many know that Bugs Baer can draw pictures as funny as his paragraphs. And that means high hilarity.

For one of those English countryside squires jogging along in a cob-drawn trap I'll take Oscar of the Waldorf. What Hollywood will do to dignity: Ray Noble becomes one of the crack silly ass comedians. They say J. P. Morgan likes to prow around pipe shops here and abroad.

A new Gable come to the movies: Stokowski. For a neat, sedate and dignified dresser it's hard to tie Messmore Kendall. Memory: The embroidered splash back of the wash bowl to save the wall paper. And Ed Hill remembers when New York had but three columnists. Which is a nice hunk of remembering.

Claire Luce, a town toast for her dainty dancing in the Follies, is making London sit up with her roles as a dramatic actress. She has appeared in two hits in a row without twinkling a toe. And still another deep drama is being readied for her. Miss Luce is a natural platinum blonde, best remembered for her entrance in a Ziegfeld show astride an ostrich—the same bird that once chased W. C. Fields into 41st street because in passing he playfully plucked a tail feather.

In those days Bill Fields never chirped a line. He was an expert juggler, with a comic routine, so superbly done Ziegfeld featured him in billing. As press agent for his shows, I used to watch him practise juggling on the old Frolic Roof. He would show up at 9 a. m.—unusual hour for an actor—and work until the matinee. I see Bill only occasionally in late years. But in those days, too, on account of his large red nose and speech, everybody thought he was a perpetual souse. Yet he seldom drank. Booze is fatal to juggling.

A restaurant picturesquely mellow with days ago is the Smith's at Poughkeepsie, where the famous brothers got their idea for cough drops and where they first manufactured them and started to bank up a fortune. Pictures, the same as those on the cough drop boxes, hang on either side of the door. One says: William Smith, born 1830, died 1913. The other, Andrew Smith, born 1836, died 1898. Paddle fans whirl above the tables presided over by corned looking waitresses—and the place has the pleasant atmosphere of the cozy ice cream parlors—those agreeable meeting places in the prairie towns of the 90's.

The raids and temporary closing of the Minsky burlesque is to appearances only a gesture. In the sanitized version, law forbids the name Minsky and the term burlesque. But it's the same old dish—differently garnished. Most of them have been reopened with potential Gypsy Rose Lees just as daring as ever in that supreme art of yokel yanking, the strip tease. A cheaper Broadway diversion is to stand near these show places and watch the old boys saunter up, look up and down furtively, and dart in like frightened rabbits.

My burlesque education was acquired in celebrated People's Over-the-Rhine in Cincinnati. Where the show began when the gallery bouncer rapped and yelled "Hats off!" Walters paraded aisles between acts with foaming glasses and year after year we hailed with delight Billy Watson's Beef Trust Blondes and Snuffy the Cab Driver. It was packed with jovial commonness such as whangs on the conk with bladders and lispng psychological lollipops who mimed about in their mignon way. But with all the rowdiness it never permitted such vulgarities as the strip tease. Men of family on nights-out went to burlesque, with wives' consent, just to give them the feeling they were raising the very Old Ned.

Food Value of Almond
WIDESPREAD KNOWLEDGE concerning the food value of nuts is responsible for their increased use in the American diet. Since the World War great advances have been made in research experiments as to their nutritive value. The results made public have taught housewives much about the importance of these foods in the diet.

This modern interest in all foods is a fine thing. It makes for good health and long life. It stimulates interest in foods heretofore seldom used. It also teaches economy in their selection and preparation.

Almonds like other nuts, were at one time a luxury food. Large shipments were imported to this country from South America, Asia and various parts of Europe. Few almonds were grown in the United States. Such as were found were gathered from wild nut trees, or from almond trees grown by the early settlers.

Today the situation is happily different. Large areas of land in California are devoted exclusively to the growing of almond trees. They yield thousands of tons yearly. The almond industry is large, involving millions of dollars and giving employment to thousands of individuals.

Two Main Types

The almond tree is beautiful and closely resembles the peach tree. The almond is the seed of the fruit. There are two main types, the sweet and the bitter almond. The sweet almond is the variety which is best known and most commonly used. There are thin, paper-shell almonds and hard-shell almonds. Individual taste decides the choice.

Almonds have many uses in the diet. Blanched and salted almonds may easily be made at home or purchased ready for use. They are delicious and nutritious. Almonds and raisins, or almonds and dates, make a "different" and wholesome dessert.

Broiled fish with an almond sauce is a tempting treat. Almonds are also used extensively in baking and in making desserts and confections.

The almond is a valuable emergency food because it is a concentrated food. It contains carbohydrates, fat and protein. In addition, adequate amounts of vitamins and minerals are present.

The protein found in almonds is a "complete" protein. Over 20 per cent of this valuable substance is present in the nut. Proteins furnish energy and also build new tissues and repair worn-out tissue.

Because almonds contain over 50 per cent fat and 17 per cent carbohydrates, they are an excellent source of heat and energy for the body. Almond flour or meal made from ground almonds is nutritious.

Lafe Hawkins an' a force o' men are sittin' around in Seth Peabody's timber checkin' up t' see if he who hesitates is lost.

Th' hen that cackles th' loudest don't allus lay th' biggest egg.

It is recommended in the diet of diabetics who have a taste for cakes and cookies.

Use almonds frequently in the diet. Their distinctive flavor and rich food elements make them an important addition to the list of valuable foods.

Four New Features Are Announced In Buick's 1938 Line

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 15. — Four outstanding engineering developments, with major improvements in style and mechanical design, feature the 1938 Buick cars being publicly announced in dealers' showrooms throughout the country today.

The new cars have one of the most important engine developments of the past 10 years by which power has been substantially increased and gasoline economy bettered without increasing the bore and stroke or otherwise changing the size of the engine.

New Rear Suspension
At the same time, a startling new rear suspension, as revolutionary in its advantages as "knee action" and involving the use of coil springs on the rear wheels, has given new riding and steering qualities to the cars not heretofore achieved with former designs. Both the engine and rear coil spring features are exclusive to this make for 1938.

A new method of body mounting, by which body bolts are located in quiet zones, or zones of least vibration on the frame, likewise contributes to the riding comfort and effectively dampens noise and vibration within the car bodies.

A fourth major improvement, which will be optional at extra cost on the Series 40 Buick cars, is the new self-shifting transmission which automatically shifts gears and provides a gear ratio effecting marked improvement in performance and economy.

In Four Series
The new Buick cars will be offered in four series for 1938—the Series 40 Special, in the lower medium price field, the Series 60 Century and the Series 80 Roadmaster in the medium price field and the Series 90 Limited, a deluxe car offered in limousine and touring sedan types, in the upper medium price class. They are being produced in a total of 21 body styles.

Leetonia Improves
Pumping Station

LEETONIA, Oct. 15.—A new electric turbine, motor driven, is being installed at the pumping station by the board of public affairs.

Lightning had damaged the stack recently and repairs were necessary to continue the old equipment. However, the board decided to install an electric turbine to displace an old steam pump, which has been in service 41 years and is the last of the old equipment at the station. The new outfit has a capacity of 200 gallons per minute.

Supt. Oliver said the water supply is plentiful just now owing to the season and rains the past summer, the production running around 200,000 gallons daily of 24 hours, while the demand is approximately 80,000 gallons.

However, the board is on the lookout for new sources of water supply for future developments and to safeguard the village in seasons of drought and fire.

Secrecy Surrounds Building
Of Navy's Sky Dreadnought

By ARTHUR N. SUVERKRUP
United Press Correspondent
SAN DIEGO, Cal.—A flying, armored dreadnought of the skies—the United States Navy's bid to maintain its supremacy in the skies—will be given its first tests here within a few weeks, probably about Nov. 1.

And while the finishing touches are being placed on the great plane, in the most closely carefully maintained secrecy, an even more powerful plane is being designed, it was learned.

Turreted, fore and aft, like the giant dreadnoughts of the surface, the new fighting craft will be as large, if not larger, than the trans-Pacific Clipper planes.

Four giant motors, mounted on the single wing, will develop more than 5,200 horsepower, it was learned.

Built by Consolidated
At the Consolidated Aircraft Corp. plant here, where the plane is being built by the most trusted workmen, officials were loath to drop the veil of secrecy concerning the fighting craft—said to be the world's most powerful air fighting machine. It was revealed, however, that a super-strong, all-metal hull, armored to protect the vital portions of the plane from rival aircraft or anti-aircraft fire, is nearing completion.

This hull, it is said, is so designed that the huge flying battleship will be able to ride out the most severe storms if forced to land in the ocean.

5,000-Mile Flying Range
A cruising range of at least 5,000 miles, probably even farther, will make the air-dreadnought capable of operating with the surface fleet.

In even the most far-flung maneuvers. Aboard will be complete quarters for the crew, it was believed.

A fuel supply which will enable the plane to take-off and remain in the air for at least 48 hours will be carried—presumably in armored tanks.

Naval and aircraft company officials admit that revolutionary changes in construction technique have been worked out—changes which some compared to the introduction of steel armor-plating on the world famous Monitor, of Civil War days.

It was learned, despite the careful guarding of all phases of the design and construction of the craft, that at least three turrets will be mounted on the big plane.

Gun Caliber Not Known
One of these will be in the bow, another will be in the amidship section, and the third some place near the tail assembly. It is assumed, also, the plane will be equipped with guns which will give it adequate protection from attacks from all angles, but the caliber and size of the armaments in each turret is something about which no word of information is available.

Meanwhile, it is persistently rumored in semi-official circles here that an even larger and more powerful air-sea fighter has been designed—if not actually already under construction here.

This rumor concerns a plane said to be far superior to anything ever conceived—a plane with at least six motors.

Naval officials remain tight-lipped concerning this rumor.

Brady Gang Survivor Apparently Unconcerned About Fate

kill Brady because of his "show-off" antics.

"Dahlover told me Brady liked to wear dress clothes every night, and that it was Brady's idea that the gang operate a night club and skating rink in Baltimore, Md."

Wichser said.

He quoted Dahlover as saying, "we decided to threaten Al after he got hold of that skating rink and was making a fool of himself."

Dahlover, Wichser said, had a "hunch" that the gang's trip into Maine would cause trouble.

Dahlover and Shaffer became dissatisfied in recent months with Brady's leadership. Wichser revealed, and decided a majority vote would rule their actions.

Some of the gunmen's major crimes were committed after they escaped from jail at Greenfield, Ind., in October, 1936.

We Wanted a Year
Jail attaches said Dahlover told them, "when we broke out of jail at Greenfield, all I wanted was one year of freedom, and I thought we were good for that. Well, we were out a year."

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Shaffer, his grandmother, Mrs. George Shaffer, said today.

College Leader

Dr. Clarence E. Josephson will be inaugurated at 10 a. m. Saturday, Oct. 23, as the seventh president of 87-year-old Heidelberg college, at Tiffin.

More than 100 college presidents, deans, and other prominent educators, and several hundred alumni and friends of the college will attend the inauguration which will be the major event of the annual alumni Homecoming weekend.

Born in Milan, Minn., March 11, 1897, Dr. Josephson had already made himself successful in two careers, business and the ministry, when he was selected last spring as the new president of Heidelberg college.

Three heavily armed guards, specially assigned by the federal government, watched Dahlover in eight-hour shifts.

CASUAL OUTFITS on Stylish Lines

Velveteen Again in Demand for Autumn Sports Wear

By MARIE MAROT

CASUAL outfits that look more expensive than they really are should prove a boon to the college girl. The outfits sketched today look as if they were custom made even if they aren't. Velveteen, after its timid debut last winter, is in demand again, especially for campus wear, because it is warm, flattering and hardy. Sketched at right is a three-piece suit of velveteen. All pieces are sold separately, but all are grand mixers. There is grosgrain binding on cardigan and blouse. Observe the polo-type belt. The outfit is available in several colors. It is a fine fabric for "stylish stouts" because it won't cling to make curves look blown up, and its lack of luster defeats the highlights on said curves. The smart model sketched at left is a tweed-fitted coat, lined and interlined, and with a good swing to the skirt below the long, narrow waist molding. There are four buttoned pockets set into the sides, at front, and the collar is the shirt type so fashionable on coats this season. This model is as good an example as you can find of the revolt from the raglan type. Raglan models are just as good as ever for those who like active sports outfits, but those who want less buxom designs can have them this year in coats like the one in the sketch.

Above, a three-piece suit of velveteen, with grosgrain binding on cardigan and blouse. It has a polo-type belt. All pieces are sold separately, but they're grand mixers. Left, tweed-fitted coat, lined and interlined, with a good swing to the skirt below the long, narrow waist molding. It has four buttoned pockets and shirt-type collar.

Brazilians Blaze Trail for Proposed Pan-American Highway

By United Press

AKRON, Oct. 9.—Members of the Brazilian highway expedition, blazing a trail for a proposed Pan-American highway from Rio de Janeiro to New York, visited here as they neared the end of their nine-year trip across two continents.

Commander Leonidas Borges de Oliveira, Francisco Lopez de la Cruz, Mario Fava, and S. W. White, who made up the party, traveled through 15 countries in their survey. They prepared 34 maps and charts of the route, which will be turned over to the Pan-American Union in Washington.

For Motor Traffic

Ten thousand miles of the 16,812 miles of the highway are open to motor traffic, they said. It is expected that the route will be opened south to Honduras within two years and that the entire project will be finished within six years. The exploratory expedition traveled across almost impassable stretches of country in Central and South America. For weeks at a time they lived on parched corn, locots, and drank water from the stalks of the bejuco tree.

When they had no gasoline they fueled the cars with a mixture of kerosene and alcohol and lubricated them with lard.

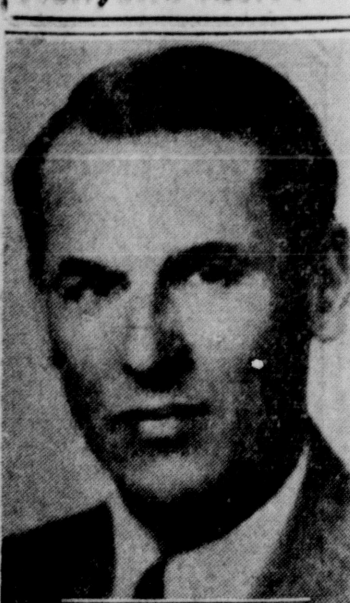

16,000-mile Highway

The Pan-American highway would enter the United States at Laredo, and extend from there to Austin, Dallas, Little Rock, Memphis, St. Louis, Springfield, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Akron, Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia and New York, enabling South American visitors to this country to traverse the most important industrial and commercial centers.

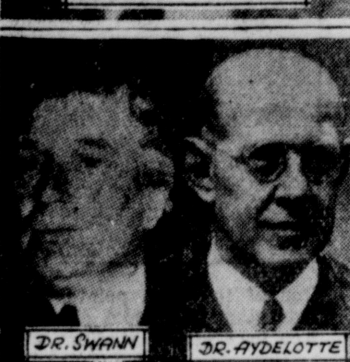

The expedition reported it had received both moral and financial support from all of the countries in which it had made surveys and studies of the route and several of the countries have already improved their sections of the 16,000 mile highway.

Marshal "Arrests" Committee Member

LISBON, Oct. 15.—A local Kiwanis committee met an old problem in an entirely new manner Thursday noon.

Mr. Frew was clapped in irons and brought to the committee meeting. His release was secured through the efforts of Atty Lodge Riddle.

Now You Can Stop Saying Stop In W. U. Telegrams

The word "stop," which has become as familiar in telegrams as the word "love," is no longer necessary. Punctuation marks and paragraphs will be sent free in all future telegrams, it was announced last night by C. S. Hollis, local manager of the Western Union Telegraph company.

"Notice of this change in the telegraph practice of the nation was given in a tariff filed with the federal communications commission to become effective today (October 15)," Mr. Hollis said. "In future, punctuation marks employed in the text of domestic telegrams—but not to points outside the United States—will be sent as written and will not be charged for.

To enable the public to use the telegraph with the same clarity of meaning and as freely, easily and fluently as in any form of communication, without having to ponder over the phrasing of messages to make sure that absent punctuation will be understood, Western Union initiates this change, giving complete punctuation service without charge.

Marks to be sent free are: the comma, the period, the colon, the semi-colon, the dash or hyphen, quotation marks, parentheses, the question mark and the apostrophe. Messages written in paragraphs will be transmitted in paragraphs at no extra cost. The words "stop," "comma," "period," etc., each, when spelled out in telegrams, will continue to be counted as a word and charged for.

Never in the past has punctuation been carried free. If it was insisted upon, the telegraph company sent it and charged for each mark as a word. Proof that people really need to mark divisions between sentences, however was evidenced by the growing use of the word "stop." The word was often used where it was not necessary, and humorists joked about it.

Mrs. Walter R. Williams of Cleveland visited Mrs. Erba Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson of Brookings, S. D., were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Atkinson, Thursday.

Mrs. W. S. Moncrief and son Donald were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moncrief of Alliance, Wednesday.

THEATER Attractions

The second Deanna Durbin picture, "100 Men and a Girl", shows tonight and Saturday at the State theater. The young star, whose mature voice has won her a large following of fans, has Leopold Stokowski, Adolphe Menjou, Alice Brady, Mischa Auer, Eugene Pallette and others in the supporting cast.

Finds Money
Adolphe Menjou, portraying an impoverished violinist, fails after several attempts to get a job in Stokowski's orchestra. He finds a woman's handbag in the lobby of the symphony hall. When he attempts to return it, the manager thinks Menjou is trying again to get Stokowski and throws the violinist out.

Menjou, threatened with dispossession, pays his rent from the money-stuffed purse. When his daughter, played by Deanna Durbin, learns about the finding of the handbag, she takes it to its owner, handed by Alice Brady. Deanna entertains the society woman's party guests by singing.

Her voice charms Alice Brady, who promises to sponsor a symphony orchestra formed by excellent musicians, friends of Menjou, who are unemployed. Menjou's best friend is Mischa Auer, another musician. Deanna tells her father the good news and he gathers 100 musicians for rehearsal. Everything goes smoothly for a few days until the owner of the rehearsal demands pay. Deanna goes to the wealthy dame and learns she has forgotten her promise and sailed for Europe.

Agrees to Be Sponsor
Deanna visits the lady's husband, portrayed by Eugene Pallette. She explains the situation and he agrees to sponsor the orchestra, making the almost impossible condition that the orchestra be directed by Stokowski.

Deanna Durbin and Adolphe Menjou, featured in "100 Men and a Girl", at the State tonight and Saturday.

Directed by Stokowski. Deanna succeeds in seeing the music director. She sings for him and wins his sympathy. She brings the 100 musicians to him, including Menjou.

Stokowski has these musicians play, take over the baton and discovers they are excellent. He agrees to conduct them and Pallette gives his financial backing.

The great day of the concert arrives. Stokowski recognizes Deanna in the audience, between selections. He calls her to the stage to acknowledge her part in the concert's success. When he asks her to speak, she hesitates until somebody calls out, "Sing!" She sings and wins the entire audience with her glorious voice.

Dick Foran at Grand
Dick Foran in "Devil's Saddle Legion" is laid in the Indian territory of the old days, the lawless days when this region was still a frontier of the United States, long before the territory became Oklahoma state. His leading lady is Anne Nagel, a lovely little Warner starlet, who played once before with him in a western, "Guns Of The Pecos," although generally she is used in straight dramatic movies.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads will tell you where.

Prince's New Birthday Picture

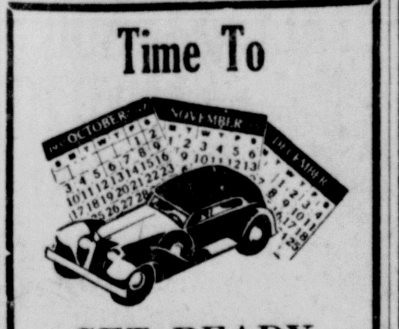

Duchess of Kent and Prince Edward

On the occasion of the second birthday of Prince Edward, son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, his official picture with his mother, the former Princess Marina of Greece, was taken at the Kent home in London.

APOPKA, Fla.—Physicians here say Levi Eiland, 58, died of fright. Eiland was discovered by his wife unconscious in the kitchen of his home. A physician who was called found a deadly coral snake on the kitchen floor. Eiland, who died in a few hours, was not bitten by the snake but died of fright, the physician said.

QUAKER JR. VARSITY OPENS SEASON TOMORROW

Associated Press Grid Experts Pick Pitt And Alabama To Win Saturday

SALEM JAYVEES START AGAINST MINERVA SQUAD

Quaker Junior Varsity Plays First Game Tomorrow

Junior varsity football will make its debut in Salem tomorrow morning when Salem High school's Jayvees tackle Minerva High school reserves in their first game of the 1937 season.

The game is scheduled for Reilly stadium, providing it does not rain. In the event Jupiter Pluvius does pay a visit the contest will be played at Centennial park to save the turf at the stadium. Starting time is listed at 9:30.

Under the tutelage of Joe Kelley, city recreation director, Lewis Smith, former Salem High grid coach, and Frank Gordon, Junior High athletic director, the Quaker Jayvees have been practicing for more than a month at Centennial park and the vacant field adjoining Reilly stadium.

Only a few members of the Jayvee squad had uniforms at the start of practice, but now more than 20 players have been fully equipped, some with entirely new practice uniforms.

Members of the squad with suits hold their workouts at Centennial park, while the players who are still without uniforms practice near Reilly stadium. Kelley, Smith and Gordon alternate in instructing each group in fundamentals of football.

This is the first year in which junior varsity football has ever been attempted here. The idea behind the program is to uncover new players and provide future Salem High school varsity stars with sound drilling in fundamentals during their Junior High and early High school years.

Although the group without uniforms is handicapped to a great extent in its practice, this aggregation is showing just as much progress as the uniformed crew.

The players with suits can participate in blocking, tackling and rough-it-up drills, while the un-equipped players must learn their football more from theory than actual experience.

Touch football on an organized scale is the main routine for the players without suits. The uniformed group holds regular scrimmages.

The Jayvee squad is composed mostly of eighth graders and freshmen, but there are several seventh graders and sophomores taking part in the workouts.

Several promising players have already been uncovered through the junior varsity program. One is Henry Baisley, who is elated by Coach Kelley, Smith and Gordon as the leading back on the Jayvee squad.

Baisley is the triple threat ace of the first string Jayvee team. From the standpoint of punting, he could easily qualify for the Quaker varsity squad. He is an accurate passer and has shown good ball-carrying ability. He is a freshman in school, and although somewhat light in weight for varsity football at present, he no doubt will be up with the varsity in another year.

Other members of the probable starting line are James Benedict, freshman, left end; Carroll Greener, freshman, center; Ward Zeller, freshman, right guard and Bob Malley, freshman, right tackle. Among the players, other than the starters, who will probably see action in the game are: Carl Bauman, freshman, back; John Julian, freshman, back; Bill Kerr, freshman, end; Bob Scullion, freshman, tackle; Bill Daniels, freshman, guard; George Antonio, freshman, tackle; Arthur Chappell, freshman, center; Don West, freshman, back; Andy Pich, freshman, back, and Fritz Schmidt, freshman, back.

OHIO GRID CARD LISTS 21 GAMES

B-W - Western Reserve Contest Heads State College Program

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—A 21-game program, topped by contests in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Athens, was on the menu for Ohio's collegiate football fans this week-end with Ohio State and Wilberforce the only idle teams.

The Bucks, faced by an open date, rested up for next week's clash with Northwestern while Wilberforce and Tuskegee cancelled their tilt at Chicago because of a scarcity of gate receipts.

The three "big" games come up Saturday afternoon. Western Reserve tosses its 26-game undefeated streak on the block against Baldwin-Wallace at Cleveland. Xavier, clashing with West Virginia at Cincinnati, and Miami and Ohio University, 1936 co-champions of the Buckeye loop, scrapping it out at Athens.

Scattered over a wide area are the other 18 contests, but none carries the state-wide interest attracted by the three top-flight events. One other Buckeye game, Marshall and Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware, is on the slate, along with seven Ohio conference frays.

In the Ohio loop Wittenberg plays Marietta, the defending champion, and Ashland goes to Findlay, in Friday night games. The Saturday contests in the league take Heidelberg to Ohio Northern, Muskingum's undefeated team to Denison, Otterbein to Mount Union, Kent State to Wooster, and Capital to Bowling Green.

Bluffton goes to Kalamazoo, Mich., and Dayton to Cleveland for a tough contest with John Carroll Friday night, while New River State at Rio Grande winds up the Friday slate with an afternoon affair.

Other Saturday clashes are: Case at Cincinnati, Akron at Toledo, Hiram at Allegheny, Oberlin at Hamilton, Bethany at Konyon, Defiance at St. Marys, and Alfred Holbrook at Morehead State.

State Football Campaign Dizzy With Odd Feats

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—It's a dizzy season, folks.... This 1937 Ohio college football campaign.

Can you remember the last time....

A football game was postponed because of rain? (Toledo and Bluffton did this year.)

A football game was canceled because there was a chance the schools might lose money? (Wilberforce and Tuskegee did it this year.)

A major team scored no first downs in an entire game? (Cincinnati university's Bearcats did it this year.)

A football coach quit in the middle of the season, as the result of a "strike" by his players? (Cincinnati university's Coach Russ Cohen did it this year.)

A team failed to score a point in two games, yet won one and tied the other? (Oberlin did it this year, a safety scored by Rochester giving the Oberlins the winning points.... and the other tilt being a scoreless tie with Kenyon.)

All the Ohio champions were defeated before reaching the half-way mark in the schedule? (Marietta, Ohio conference champ, has dropped three in a row; Miami, co-champ of the Buckeye, has lost one of three, and Ohio U., tied with Miami a year ago, has lost two of three starts.)

Five players on one team suffered broken noses in early-season contests? (Duffy, Gehrandt, Snider, Kovachy and Watkins of Denison have done it this year.)

Hiram won a football game? (The little non-conference school did it this year, after 19 straight setbacks.)

Western Reserve lost a football game? (The Red Cats haven't done it this year, or last year, or the year before.... Having run their string to 23 since Ohio State topped them in 1934.)

Ohio State won a football game by the margin of a point after touchdown? (It was the last game of 1933, and the score was 7 to 6 against Illinois. Since then Ohio has lost three by a single point, and two of them cost shares of the Big Ten title.)

A football team won two of three games, while scoring but seven first downs to 26 for the foe? (Capital university did it this year. The Capitals have scored six touchdowns, just one less than the number of first downs.)

A coach predicted his team would win? (Frank Wilton of Miami did it this year.... and then lost to Marshall, 7 to 6.)

A football expert selected all the winners? (We can't remember that far back, either.)

YALE GETS NOD; NAVY NAMED TO SPANK HARVARD

Barker Selects Irish By Narrow Margin Over Carnegie Tech

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Roaring with anticipatory pain, this morning plows head-on into a baffling slat of major football games and then scurries hurriedly for the nearest Gopher hole.

Fordham-Pitt: The Panther and the Ram haven't even a safety to show for their pulling and tugging matches of 1935 and 1936. We'll take Pitt but give due warning that if this ends in their third successive scoreless tie, the scream from this corner will carry to the banks of the Monongahela.

Tennessee-Alabama: Tennessee played Duke's powerhouse to a scoreless last week. Alabama has kicked in everybody it faced so far. For no discernible reason, Alabama.

Northwestern-Purdue: Maybe this is the week that Purdue scoring punch will be visible to the naked eye. In the absence of any definite proofs of its existence, however, we'll take Northwestern.

Texas Christian-Texas A. and M.: As close as they come but the Aggies rate the call.

Southern California-Oregon: Strictly on the toss of a coin. Southern California.

Cornell-Syracuse: The Ithacans must be given the edge over undefeated Syracuse.

Yale-Army: Yale skill made Penn look bad last week. Army, in whipping Columbia, 21-18, was vulnerable to passes. Yale has a great passer in Clint Frank. Ergo: Yale gets the nod.

Navy-Harvard: If Harvard has not got its best team in years eastern experts are suffering from collective astigmatism. Navy has the man-power but has been extremely slow to get under way. From kick formation Navy.

Columbia-Penn: Penn thought Yale was playing a half dozen Clint Franks last week. Sid Luckman probably will get just as much in their hair, Columbia.

Carnegie-Notre Dame: Tech doesn't seem to have the scoring punch to win. Notre Dame but not by much.

Colgate-Tulane: The boys around these parts insist Colgate, frenched by Cornell, won't lose another game all year. It may be so but this corner has got to be shown. Tulane.

Holy Cross-Georgia: The southern Bulldogs look good enough to win the ball game.

Brown-Dartmouth: No hope for Brown here, Dartmouth.

Chicago-Princeton: The Tigers over inexperienced Chicago.

Michigan-Minnesota: This trusting soul simply can't believe the Minnesota are as bad as they have looked, Minnesota.

Indiana-Illinois: Bo McMillin's Hoosiers haven't beaten Illinois since 1903 which may, or may not, prove that everything comes to him who waits. Indiana.

Wisconsin-Iowa: The Badgers look good. Wisconsin.

Nebraska-Oklahoma: This will be no place for the Cornhuskers to be thinking about that victory over Minnesota, but Nebraska's the choice just the same.

Missouri-Michigan State: Even Stephen but the coin says State.

Georgia Tech-Duke: We like this one for the best long shot of the day. Ready to duck if it's a boom-crash, Georgia Tech.

Louisiana State-Mississippi: Louisiana.

Auburn-Mississippi State: Close enough to look like a tie but we'll take Mississippi State.

Kentucky-Washington & Lee:

Bradley Announces O'Neill Will Re-sign With Indians

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The wolves are going hungry after all. All those scalps of major league managers that were promised to the "howlers" a few weeks back are going to stay plastered on the heads to which they belong.

An Associated Press survey today showed that the only pilots likely to get the heavy-o as a result of the 1937 campaign are the two who received their walking papers before the season ended—Chuck Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds and Rogers (Bookie) Pal Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns.

Even Steve O'Neill, for whose neck the wolves were roaring from start to finish of the season, appears as safe as money in the bank. In fact, President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians came right out in meeting today with the announcement that O'Neill will be back bossing the tribe next season "unless someone can convince me we'll better ourselves with someone else."

GOPHERS REACH CRUCIAL POINT IN GRID SLATE

Must Have Win Over Wolverines To Reestablish Themselves

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Minnesota football machine hits the crossroads tomorrow.

After roaring mightily down the gridiron trail for three seasons, the Golden Gophers head into a game which may signal the end of their brilliant winning cycle—or reestablish the puzzling Bernie Bierman reared elevens. The Gophers oppose Michigan at Ann Arbor and will be battling for far more than retention of the traditionally famous "little brown jug".

The Minnesota squad of 20 players, all extremely serious-minded about tomorrow's battle with the improving Wolverines, worked out today at Jackson, Mich., and will remain there overnight. They felt this is the game they have to win to make their season potentially comparable to those of the past three years.

Michigan ended strenuous work with a workout that did not play Coach Harry Kipke, who said to squad "just didn't know its place. There was a feeling in the Michigan camp, however, that the Wolverines were ready for their big game of the year.

A crowd surpassing the one of 68,000 which saw the Michigan-Michigan State game is expected to watch the scrap, in which Michigan will be battling to prevent Minnesota from becoming the Big Ten school ever to win four straight games from a Wolverine eleven.

Northwestern will entertain Purdue, and Coach Lynn Waldorf of the champion Wildcats was admittedly worried about the strength of the invading Boilermakers. For Northwestern line regulars and nurse bruises suffered against Michigan but will start Saturday. The Purdue squad of 35 players worked out at Evanston today.

Coach Mal Edward said he would see the same combination that began the Carnegie Tech game Saturday. Some 40,000 fans may see the battle.

Coach Bo McMillin sent his Indiana squad through a brisk punting drill as a final tuneup for the invading Illinois eleven. Coach Bill Zupke of the Illini was far from pleased with the showing of his regulars in their final workout against freshmen equipped with Hoosier plays.

Iowa, after a final light signal drill, headed for Madison to give Wisconsin's promising Badgers their first severe test of the campaign. Both Hawkeyes and Badgers were in good shape and will put on their show before an anticipated throng of more than 39,000.

Chicago, showing more spirit than at any time this season, looked impressive as the Maroons awaited the invasion of Princeton. Tiger. This renewal of an old and always hotly contested international series was expected to draw about 25,000 spectators.

Notre Dame's squad of 42 players headed east for Pittsburgh and a battle with Carnegie Tech, the first start Saturday of Purdue. The Irish held a light drill yesterday, checking defense assignments against Tech plays. Ohio State has an open date and next week swings into preparation for Northwestern.

Benefiting from a forfeit by Merit Shoes, the People's Lumber Co. moved into second place in the Commercial Handicap Bowling League at the Grate Recreation league last night.

The Salem Polo club staged the event of the evening, defeating the defending champion Salem News team in two out of three games. Other matches saw Smith's Creamery win three from the Grate Recreation, the Crescent Machine Shop of Leontia take two out of three from the Junior Saxons and Berg Bretzels of Leontia win two out of three from the Ohio Bell Telephone.

Deb Miller of the News had the high single game score for the night with 235, while Peacock of the Crescent Machine had high series with 543.

The Panthers won three games from the Tigers to take over first place in the Electric Furnace league at the Masonic Temple alleys last night. The Lions won two out of three from the Bears in the other Furnace league match.

Winning two out of three games from the Pattern Shop, the Machine Shop continued in first place in the Bliss league. One other Bliss match saw White's take two out of three games from the Production quintet.

YALE GETS NOD

Maybe Kentucky can win this one.

Southern Methodist-Vanderbilt. No line of comparison. A fairing vote for Southern Methodist.

Rice-Tulsa. Tulsa.

Washington State-Washington. If the Huskies have gotten over the shock of that Oregon State defeat they should take this one. Washington.

Oregon State-U. C. L. A.: Using the reverse system of selecting, U. C. L. A.

Greene-Utah: Utah.

Scrambling over the chalk-lines otherwise: Penn State over Lehigh; Bucknell over Miami; DePauw over Catholic; Iowa State over Kansas; Wake Forest over Duke.

CINCY MANAGER GIVES WARNING

"Can't Expect Miracles Of Last Place Team", McKechnie Says

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15.—Bill McKechnie, newly-named manager of the Cincinnati Reds, scanned a two years, $50,000 contract today, warned fans of the last-place club they should "expect no miracles," and announced that "any trades will have to be good ones."

"If hard work and ability mean anything," he said, "then I know I will earn my money."

General Manager Warren Giles, who headed the Rochester, N. Y., International loop club during McKechnie's tenure as pilot there said that with a $25,000 annual salary and $5,000 annual bonus—the diminutive Pennsylvania was the third highest-paid manager in the big leagues. He named Bill Terry of the Giants and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees.

The bonus will be paid, Giles said, if the Reds' 1938 home attendance keeps pace with their three-year average of 450,000, or if the club goes into the first division.

Powel Crosley, Jr., president of the club told city officials, club directors and newspapermen gathered at a luncheon that the Reds would continue to spend money—"big money"—for players of the right kind.

"But there's no hurry," suggested McKechnie, "because every deal must be a good one, and dealing-time doesn't expire until June 15."

GULDAHL, BURKE LEAD TOURNEY

16 Leading Pros Enter Second Round of Golf Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15.—Sixteen of the nation's classiest pros, paced by Ralph Guldahl and Billy Burke, faced double duty today in the second and third rounds of Oklahoma City's first annual $5,000 four-ball golf tournament.

Guldahl, national open champion from Chicago, and Burke, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., led the field of eight teams by a scant point, thanks to Billy's sensational 67. Sub-par playing enabled him and Guldahl to beat Ed Dudley of Philadelphia and Jimmy Hines of New York, 3 up.

Only a point behind the Guldahl-Burke combination as the sharpshooters teed off today were Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, who stopped Ky Lafson and Dick Metz, 2 up, in an all-Chicago match.

Lawson Little of Chicago, former British and American amateur champ, and Paul Runyan of New York, defeated Johnny Revolta, Chicago, and Ray Mangrum, Dayton, 1 up.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—True story: Down at Burlington, N. C., the Tower and McEwen Hosiery Mill teams collided in a seven-game series to decide the championship of an industrial league... after nine games, the boss voted to "call the whole thing off" so as to get to the World series on time. McEwen had won three games at the finish and Tower two... the other four ended in ties, help us... manager of Tower was Dave Barbee, former big leaguer... he hit safely on 10 of 14 trips to the plate... five of the ten blows were homers... sports writers down there swear the series was on the level...

As compact a sectional sports conference book as ever reached this desk is the Missouri Valley conference handbook, edited by Leighton Housh... it contains everything from cross country to the constitution... here's an odd twin story: Jack and Dick Gormley, playing end and center for Louisiana State, look so little alike they don't fool the opposition... now if that ain't one for the book, sue us... The reason Doc Sutherland and other big league scouts spend their summers in the Ohio valley is such guys as Pitt's Marshall Goldberg, Notre Dame's Lou Zontini and Tennessee's George Cafego and Sam Bartholomew, all of whom came out of that section... ace of the present crop is Alvin Thacker, 190-pounder, who scored 13 touchdowns for Charleston's East Bank High school in the first four games of the season... Pitt wants him—so do a lot of others—get in that line to the right, gents...

The only National league manager who didn't wire Bill McKechnie congratulations on landing that fat $22,500-per Cincinnati job was Pie Traynor of the Pirates... Pie and Bill aren't talking any more, and good old Bill is all cut up about it... trouble started when the Bees sent Berger to the Giants for Frank Gabler and $25,000... Traynor wanted Berger... Bill says he tried to get in touch with Pirate officials before the deal was made, but no dice... anyway, Traynor doesn't drop around to the Boston dressing room after the game any more... just too bad, for Bill McKechnie never played a scurvy trick on anybody in his life...

John Gulley of Shenandoah college (Dayton, Va.) never saw a football game until the night before he played against Georgetown at Washington... they shot him in their against Ed Hardy, Georgetown's candidate for All-America honors... John played one "L" of a game... and if you don't believe it, ask Hardy.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Tons of aluminum dumped into Lake Estelle here have changed the waters from a muddy hue to a clear aquamarine color. In June, 1936, the state road department dredged a causeway across the middle of the lake and muddled the waters, making the lake impractical for swimming.

(YOUR FORD DEALER)

It's fine to have people talk about Ford cars. Conversation is one of the things that go with leadership. And leadership, quite naturally, inspires speculation. But speculation is sometimes pure guessing.

What do you want to know? Being Authorized Ford Dealer in this city, Grate knows more about this subject of Ford Cars than anybody else. Ask him — and get the facts!

"THE SILVER ROOD MYSTERY"

by Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER XVII

"Look here, Harley," Foxcroft said, "you know how I feel. I need for me to dissemble, with you. I actually hope that Griswold is the man and that I can get him and make him confess. At the same time, I'm not one of those prosecutors who wants to make a conviction, regardless. Above all else, I want the truth and I want the guilty party."

"I know you do," I assured him, "even if the guilty party proves to be Mary."

"That's all darn nonsense!" "I hope so."

"You hope so? Look here, Harley, you've made several cracks like that. You can't be serious."

"I, too, want the truth. I assuredly hope Mary is not involved, but if she is—"

"She couldn't be."

"She left the party, she was on the grounds. She could have gone to the library porch. That silver rood has been hanging on the library wall since she can remember. It is possible, almost probable, that, as a curious child, she may have examined it and learned that instead of being a religious object it was really a trick knife."

"Let's see what we can make of this Wilbur Fellows incident you just dug up," Foxcroft said, hurriedly.

"I managed to hide a smile. I thought that if I hinted that Mary might be involved, he would be glad to change the subject and tell me something about this Wilbur Fellows."

"He would have everything ready, he wrote her, by the time she got the note. According to the date of the postmark she must have received it four days before the murder," I pointed out.

"She might have delayed for several reasons—to get up her courage—"

"Nola Morin isn't the type to have to build up her courage. The way she responded to our questions proves that."

"That's so," Foxcroft agreed. "Then she waited for an opportunity to see him alone. According to her story, she saw him but he was asleep and she didn't wake him. Now I wonder if his death makes any difference in her plans?"

"That's to be found out. Tell me about this Wilbur Fellows."

"About three years ago his mother was housekeeper for Montie, a good and clever woman, as far as we could learn, but as so often happens, she had a no-good son. This son used to visit, weekends, with his mother. He worked, we learned, as a clerk in a New York broker's office; just a small job. While visiting his mother he got hold of some of Montie's signatures and some of his blank checks. He forged a couple and we got after him. It wasn't difficult to prove against Fellows."

"And you said that Mr. Montie didn't prosecute?"

"On account of the chap's mother."

The poor woman had some money and pleaded to be allowed to make the small loss good—it was only three hundred. Montie pitied her and dropped the whole matter, refusing to take any of her money. She left, of course, unable to stand the disgrace, as all the servants knew about it.

"And now he pops up, before the murder," I exclaimed.

"How do you know that?"

"See the date of the note. He wrote that he would be down in a couple days; that was four days before the murder."

"On the other hand, he certainly had no grudge against Montie. In fact, he had every reason to be grateful because Montie did not prosecute him."

"There is an old saying," I reminded Foxcroft, "that we never forgive those whom we have done an injury."

Foxcroft ignored this. "You claimed right along that you thought there was something phony about the Morin girl. If Fellows had been out to kill Montie, he wouldn't send a girl to do it. In fact, he wouldn't have waited three years, anyway."

"I had to agree that this was sound logic."

"Then perhaps Fellows dug up something in Mr. Montie's past. Because Montie knew him as a forger, he couldn't do any blackmailing in person, hence the stunning Nola Morin to do his work for him."

"That's even better logic, Harley," Foxcroft exclaimed. "But I still insist that this plot to blackmail changed to get under way just at the time Griswold killed Montie, and is in no way connected. Remember when Morin insisted she had been going to ask for a raise and added, 'It's too late now, anyway'?"

"I recalled that."

"All right, just lay low, and let me get busy. I've got plenty to do. I'm going after this mystery of the upstairs maid and the chap who once forged checks on Montie."

"Luck to you—I'll give you a reticent and any other help, but my real interest is in getting my hands on Howard Griswold."

I drove back home and made a few more notes, trying to get these muddled leads and clues outlined with some semblance of continuity. Sally scolded me, mildly, for working so hard, and I took her into my confidence. She changed her mind, then, and agreed that if she were in my place she would do the same, the mystery was so fascinating.

In the morning I had a talk with Mrs. Johnson, telling her that it was most important to keep Nola Morin working there while I investigated further.

"She isn't really trained or efficient. I was planning to replace her," Mrs. Johnson informed me.

I begged her to put up with anything, keep the girl as contented as possible and to let her have a day or night off whenever she asked for it.

Mary came to me at this time and said she would like to go and see her aunt again.

"Go and come as you please. Mary, there will be no more surveillance. Go alone or take Sally. But do me a favor, don't tell your aunt any details. Don't even tell her about the silver rood or the stolen painting as yet."

Then I told her what I had said to Mrs. Johnson about Nola Morin. She agreed that the Morin woman should be kept on as long as I wanted her where I knew where she was.

I went back to Mrs. Johnson again and asked her what information she could give me about the maid who had left to get married and had brought Nola Morin on to take her place.

I should have investigated that before, I realized, but this fourth day after the crime I was still busier than ever before in my life and had had more important things to do.

"Hutton? That will be easy, Mr. Stevenson," Mrs. Johnson assured me and took me to her desk where she hunted up the forwarding address Flora Hutton had left. It was up in the West Seventies, in New York.

"What about this Flora Hutton?" I asked.

"Just an average maid, neat, trained, but not over-bright."

"Did she have men friends or a steady sweetheart?"

"No. Perhaps she went to Greatport now and then with one of the chauffeurs to a picture, but she got little mail, and had no steady lover. I recall that I was surprised when she said she was leaving to be married."

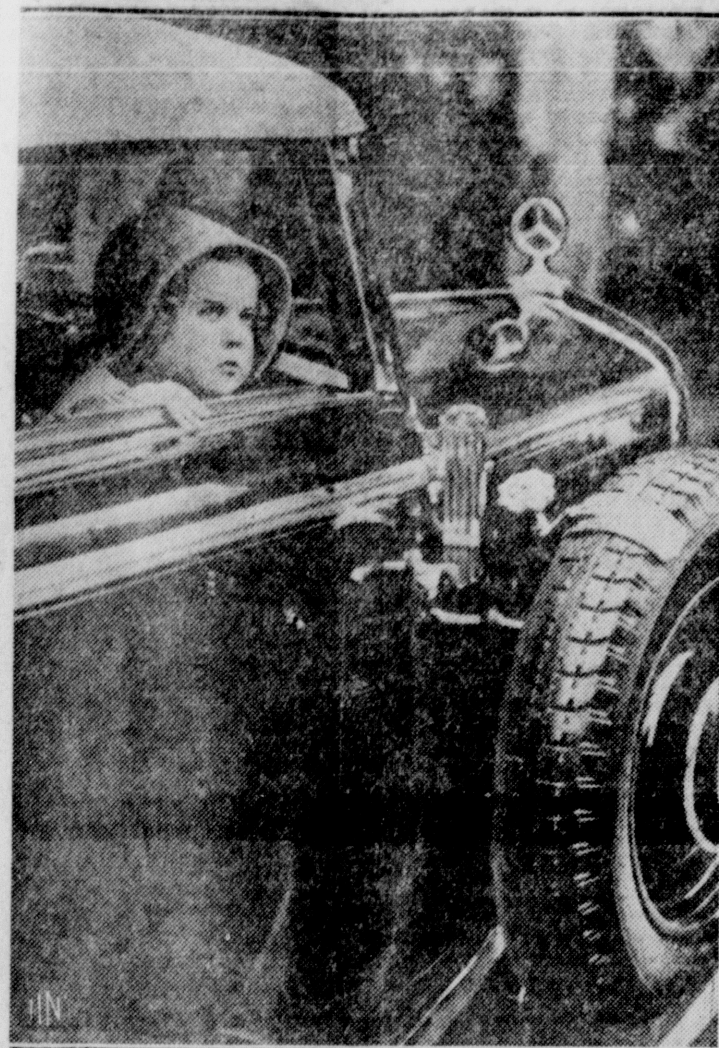

When I got back to my father-in-law's place, Mary was already there and Sally was getting ready to go to New York with her.

I hurried them up, explaining that I would go along with them. Mary looked at me, suspiciously, as though she thought that I had changed my mind about there being no surveillance.

"I shall leave you when we get to town, and have no idea when I'll be back, so don't wait for me."

Mary seemed relieved at this. The reason I hurried them was that I wanted half an hour in Greatport before the train.

I told Sally to take my car to come home in from Greatport, and I would come back by bus. Then I went to Foxcroft's office but he wasn't in, so I went to his home. He was having a late breakfast and looked all in. He had worked most of the night. Being the county prosecutor, he had considerable work to handle.

"This Wilbur Fellows knows you, doesn't he, Wally?" I asked.

"He certainly does. I had just come into office then and I was all set to prosecute him for the forgery when Montie insisted on dropping it."

"Then forget him. If you chance to see him in town, pretend not to know him. He doesn't know me, or anything about me. Let me handle this angle."

"Got any line on Griswold?"

"Not a thing."

"Well, it will cheer you to know

I am convinced that Mary didn't know he was going to beat it."

"Of course she didn't know. She's not involved. It will hurt her at first to find out the truth about this Griswold, but she's level headed; she will see that it is all for the best to have learned the truth."

"Right."

Foxcroft was still dreaming dreams of winning Mary Montie. I had a talk with Sergeant Harper. He was more discouraged than at any previous time. There was not the slightest clue to Professor Henri Lardeau. Griswold had escaped. Everything seemed to be wrong.

I told him where I was going and why.

"You'll bump up against a dead end, Mr. Davison," he said, dismally, "but we can't afford to pass up the slightest lead."

I got to the train just as Sally and Mary were getting aboard.

I left them at the Penn station, went uptown on the subway and found the forwarding address left by Flora Hutton. I learned that her mother kept a rooming house—one of those myriad old all-ali- brik and red sandstone buildings. Flora wasn't there. She was working for a family on West End ave.

Her mother didn't seem at all curious.

The place on West End ave. was one of those immense apartments that sported a butler.

I told him that I was a lawyer, that I wanted about five minutes' talk with Flora Hutton. He took me down the corridor to a servants' entrance and sent Miss Hutton out to the tiny foyer.

When I asked her about Nola Morin she seemed worried.

"Has she done anything?" she asked.

I said that she had not, but that I had to do some legal investigating.

"I met her in Greatport. She must have had me pointed out as one of the maids at the Montie place. She got acquainted with me and told me that she was in love with a man in South Cove. She gave me five hundred dollars to say I was going to be married and to get her engaged to take my place!"

GENTLEMEN, WE GIVE YOU THE MOST MODERN CHASSIS IN THE WORLD

ON DISPLAY OCTOBER 16th at BUICK Showrooms Everywhere

Under the new beauty of Buick, modern engineering makes history, co-starring the DYNAFLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING

WHAT HAPPENS inside the 1938 Buick engine happens nowhere else in the world.

That is not advertising language, it is cold-steel engineering fact.

Speeding through the raceways of the intake manifold, the fuel mixture vapor hurricanes into the cylinders at speeds around 250 miles an hour.

As it sweeps past streamline valve contours, a scientifically designed Turbulator, built into the piston face, flings it into airswirls of terrific turbulence.

The spark that leaps through that compact storm-center sets off a flashing cyclone of power, exploding with tornadoic force!

Sitting in the driver's seat you become aware of power that is livelier and more brilliant because gasoline is giving up more performance than it ever gave up to motorists before!

TO MATCH this incomparable stride, Buick engineers now give you a kind of springing you will likewise find on no other car in the world.

Poised on jarless coils of easy-flexing steel, Buick floats free of bobble, jar, chatter, jounce.

The car will not over-steer or under-steer—skidding, even on icy highways, is blessedly reduced.

Rear tires no longer scuff half their life away through power-wasting wheel-slip.

Through winter and summer, without need of grease and without "seize" from rust, dirt, water or ice, springs keep their gentle, even cushioning for the life of the car.

YES, IT IS a great story, the story of these twin engineering triumphs in the 1938 Buick.

So great a story that it obscures half a score of other advances, themselves enough to make any car a wonderful buy.

We invite you to learn more about them this week at any Buick showroom.

"Better buy Buick!"
